
Observed slopes describe this workload range, not a change in algorithmic complexity